Distinctively beautiful and highly reflective, this coin resembles the one-sided Proofs found in the Smithsonian Institution. Both sides are deeply and beautifully toned a rich yellow gold that deepens in the fields and around the peripheries, but preserves the cherished faint green among the satiny details of the reverse. The obverse is boldly, stunningly reflective, with cameo contrast between the frosty device and the fields that pool outside them. The peripheral flowlines of almost crystalline character, often seen on Proof coins of this era, are seen radiating from the center just inside the denticles. Every detail is boldly struck, including every curl on Liberty's head and the center of each star. The rim is crisp, if not perfectly square everywhere. --- The most notable aspect of this variety is its overdate, long identified as 1825/1, though this specimen clearly shows the upper A-framed angle of a 4 beneath the final date digit. PCGS is calling this an 1825/4/1. From the Pogue Collection.

Brent Pogue 1832 12 Stars half eagle has sold at auction just once in the last 125 years. Its attractive yellow gold surfaces are graced with satiny luster, and their toning deepens to orange on approach to the beaded borders. There are five confirmed specimens of this variety, though one of them has not been seen since 1954. 9990005	11217	1836 Gobrecht Silver $S1 (J-58) - NGC PF64	$100,000.00	Gobrecht-designed dollars were struck in 1836 to reintroduce the denomination to a new generation. The strike details are full with complete hair definition. All the eagle's breast feathers are completely articulated on the reverse. The production of 18 pieces for the Name Below Base is an apocryphal mintage that is traceable to Edward Cogan in 1867. While no exact mintage is known for this issue, judging from the number of survivors known somewhere around 60 to 100 pieces were probably made. As with all Gobrecht dollars, they were struck in proof format and most likely struck twice to bring up high point definition. This is a stunning Judd-58. The fields are brightly mirrored and devoid of any noticeable contact marks. As mentioned above, the striking definition is strong. The foot of Liberty is the usual place to look for fullness of strike on a Gobrecht dollar, and here it has medal-like clarity of detail. The centers are brilliant with light golden toning encircling the margins. Mintage...probably 60 to 100.
3550201	11217	1836 Silver Gobrecht $1 (J-58) - NGC PF62	$42,000.00	Name Below Base, Judd-58 Restrike, Pollock-61, R.6(?) - As one would expect from a proof produced in the late 1850s, the fields are deeply mirrored on each side. This is apparent even through the multiple layers of deep blue, gray, and rose-golden toning that cover each side. The high points of the design are completely brought up, including Liberty's head, foot and sandal, and the eagle's breast feathers. NGC Census: 1 in PR62, 9 finer. PCGS Population: 2 in PR62, 10 finer. Price Guide...$65,000.
3542101	11354	1838 Seated $1 (J-85) Res. - PCGS PR65+ CAC	$200,000.00	Mintage...Unknown. These pieces are extremely rare. Many variants of Gobrecht dollars were struck beginning in 1836, continuing in 1837, 1838, and 1839, picking up again in the late 1850s and continuing through the 1870s. Of these many issues the only date that is believed to actually have been coined as a pattern is the 1838. Each side displays variegated shadings of rose, blue, golden, and brown, lighter in the center of the obverse and deeper around the margin. The strike is full. This includes complete definition on the foot of Liberty, the eagle's breast feathers, and the right-side stars on the obverse.
3553801	60928	1869 10C (J-703) - NGC PF67	$3,250.00	Rich toning acorns this superb premium gem.

Struck in silver with a reeded edge. This original Gem has dusky gray toning with peripheral gold, violet, and blue. Light cameo contrast is evident on both sides although the toning prevents a Cameo designation.
